Re: *Caribbean Vibes Spring Festival Organizers Seek Sponsors

January 29, 2004--Caribbean Vibes Restaurant, a Bay Area restaurant for authentic Jamaican cuisine, is seeking sponsors for their first annual Caribbean Vibes Spring Festival on Saturday, April 24, 2004 in the Alamo Plaza, 898 Alamo Drive, in Vacaville.

The spring festival aims to bring cultural diversity and awareness to the Vacaville community through entertaining and educational means. Festival-goers can look forward to excellent live reggae and steel pans; DJs Clique International spinning the latest dancehall, reggae, R&B and soca music; thrilling hip-hop dancers; a large jerk BBQ pit; and many fun children's activities including face painting, for kids of all ages. Festivities will take place from noon until 6 pm.

In return for their support, sponsors will gain great publicity for their involvement with the festival. Sponsors will have their logo published on all festival print and web collateral, will have the opportunity to host a booth, sell their products at the festival, gain free meal tickets, and can post a large vinyl banner centrally-located at the venue. Interested parties should contact Elaine Foster at 707-425-5484 or email foxybrown1960@sbcglobal.net for more details.

Caribbean Vibes Restaurant, soon approaching its second anniversary, is a member of the Vacaville Chamber of Commerce. The restaurant is located at 898 Alamo Drive in Vacaville, CA; 707-452-9003. They offer delicious, fresh, authentic Jamaican dishes like oxtail, jerk chicken, curry goat, escovitch fish, plantains, dumplings, callaloo, and pepper shrimp. A little grocery with Jamaican imports and savories also accompanies the restaurant and offers many exclusive Jamaican products.
